using and responding locutions like 'on purpose'

interagential interactions involving communication about psychological things using and responding locutions like 'believes' interagential interactions responding differentially to d-behaviours responding differentially to registrations

interagential
interactions
involving communication about psychological
things

interagential
interactions

systematic characterisation
s of principles
implicit in these
interactions

theories
of the capacities
that explain how
these interactions are possible

theories
of the capacities
that explain how
this larger set of
interactions are
possible

capacities for social interaction patterns of social interaction regulatory goals

normative ideals

ethical needs

legal opportunities

...

interagential interactions involving communication about psychological things

systematic characterisations of principles implicit in these interactions